MONTESSORI TRAINING

Philosophically prescribed curriculum
(Montessori Approach)

"Children learn best through sense"

Definition of Curriculum

The Montessori theory is a method of teaching developed by Maria Montessori that stated children learn best through sense. The education is personalised to each child's learning style, stage of development, and interests. Children develop complete academic and wellbeing foundations through hands-on experience, real-world application, and problem-solving using Montessori method of education.

Principles of Curriculum

1. Independence : Giving children opportunities to do things by themselves.
2. Observation : Observed what needed by children.
3. Following The Child : Follow the children what activity they need for their development.
4. Correcting The Child : Children will make mistakes and we need to teach them in a nice manner.
5. Prepared Environment : Environment has to be safe for the child, rooms are child sized with activities set up.
6. Absorbent Mind : The first six years of life are the most crucial in a child's development . (child simply absorb everything).

The Roles of Teacher

- Montessori teacher called "directress" - observe each child needs, capabilities and interests.
- Directress offers child opportunities to work intelligently and with a concrete purpose, to service the care in small community.
- Directress allows the child to act, think for them self for helping develop their confidence and inner discipline.
- + Directress doesn't give awards or punishments .
- Directress introduces the use of new materials and presents activities.
- Directress helps each child make a list of objectives at the beginning of the week.

Opinion of Curriculum

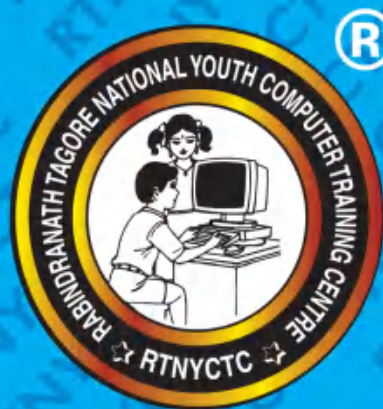

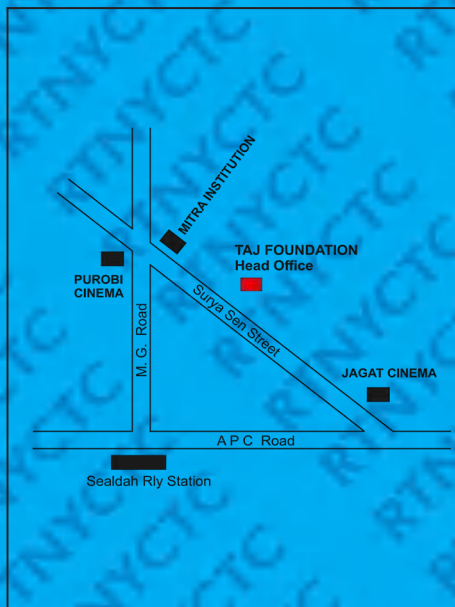

Montessori is a different from traditional formal learning which makes it more fun for the children because they were given opportunity to learn by their self through experience by doing activities freely. Children construct their knowledge by using senses, movement, solving problem, interest and practice so they can participate actively without people controlling and told them what to do. Because of that children can absorb all the knowledge without limit and help them find their inner potential without any people judging their interests. However in my opinion this curriculum also had pros and cons for children education in Malaysia.
